MISS ZELLA ARMSTRONG HAS BOOK OFF PRESS

Compilation of Genealogical

Sketches of East Tennessee Families.

"Notable Southern Families" is the title of a volume compiled by Miss Zella Armstrong. The first copy was off the press only Friday and the whole edition will be on the market in a few days. The few friends who have examined the book have warmly praised it. It is neat-appearing, bound in tan, with conventional cover design in brown. The edition is volume 1 of a series, all to be devoted to the notable families identified with Tennessee history.

While Virginis and New York Sersters Market Washing Capt. Arnold and Lieut. Morgan of the quartermasters' corps, have been transferred to Camp Fremont, San Francisco. CHILDREN'S DAY AT THE FAIR MONDAY, SEPT. 30

SPECIAL PRIZES OFFERED FOR ARMY KNITTING.

War Organizations Have Taken Space in the Woman's Building.

Mrs. Earl Cook, chairman of women's building of the district fair, is meeting with unequaled success in her efforts towards making this department excel all former exhibits in this line.

All of the war working societies have engaged space, and Mrs. Cook says the building will be full to the very door. Some special feature will be given each day.

Experts from the University of Tenpesses will talk on textiles home. nessee will talk on textiles, home onomics and other practical economics and other practical subjects.

Monday, Sept. 30, the opening day of the fair, children will be admitted from 12 to 5 free of charge. The Council of National Defense is planning a pageant and a play meet for that day, and the entire grounds will be turned over to the children.

Tuesday, Oct. 1, will be the girls' canning club day in charge of Mrs. J. B. Lauderbach. A down-town parade will be part of their program, and the National League for Women's Service will serve lunches to the girls. D. B. Loveman company has arranged for admittance for 100 girls.

The corn club boys will be the guests of the Kiwanis club.

Among the best prizes offered is for scrap books for the convalescent sol-diers. There are four sets of big prizes consisting of first, second and third in each set, making twelve prizes in all. These scrap books will be the property of the fair committee and will be turned over to Miss Margaret Dunlap of the Chattanooga public library for distribution. Miss Drake in charge of the convalescent library at Fort Oglethorpe says the value of these books to the soldiers cannot be em-phasized too much.

The chairman of the different departments and the manager, Joe Curtis, all speak enthusiastically of the out-look for the fair this year, expecting it to exceed the display as well as the attendance of last year.

Charles G. Givens, a Dayton boy, who enlisted with Troop B, under command of Maj. J. P. Fyffe, and who was wounded while in the trenches, has wounded while in the trenches that has passed the censors. He gives to his family the comforting assurance that his own wounder are trivial and that he is "up again." His story, however, which tells conditions under which numerous other Tennessee and even Chattanooga boys are fighting, brings the terrors of the great fight home with a thrust that chills.

Troop B, now the 117th machine gun company, is a Chattanooga organization, the ranks padded out with boys from the surrounding counties and towns. It is manned by Chattanooga of Gera, Scarcely a boy is in the ranks but is widely known here.

Though it has been known for some time that the boys were close behind and probably even in the trenches, the notice of young Givens' wound was the first actual report of their pencounter, an excursion into the front in active fighting. Fifty of us, twenty-five British and twenty-five Americans ('non coms.'). Went over on a little raid. It took us an hour and a half to cross 'no man's land, which at that point was 250 yards wide. Had a little hard luck, and hadn't more than hit Jerry's line before we were spotted and, believe me, it didn't take an hour and a half to back. Machine guns seemed to jump up everywhere, but they were shooting high and there wasn't but four men hit. I was disappointed. I'd been led to believe that I'd get to see a German on my bayonet, but I didn't get the chance. I had the exquisite pleasure, though, of throwing a big granade in one of his dugouts and I heard 'em scream like pigs when it exploded.

"The British are rather bored, they have been at it so long. The French are nearly the same, except they show a little more interest when things liven up. The 'Tommies.' though, are the limit. They sit around and talk shop during the hottest times. And the Americans—the Americans copy after the British—try to look bored and can't. But they are first-class fighting men, and we're doing excellent work in the line just at present. "I'll be going up again in a day or so, and next time I come back I hope to report better results, that is, I intend to see that Jerry on my bayonet.

$250,000 LOVE SUIT BY HUSBAND NOTED SINGER

VERNON, TORPEDOED

Washington, Sept. 7.—The United States army transport Mount Vernon, formerly the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessen Cecilie, was torpedoed by an enemy submarine Thursday, 200 miles from the coast of France, while homeward bound, but was able to return to port. The report to the navy department today made no mention of any casualties and it was assumed that no one was injured by the explosion.

No military units were on board, but the big liner probably was carrying some sick and wounded American soldiers in addition to her crew of probably 600 or 700 navy men. The extent of the damage was not given in the department's advices, but from the fact that the vessel was able to return to France at a speed of fourteen knots, officials concluded that she was not badly damaged.

The Mount Vernon is the account of Luigi Curci, artist husband of Mme Galli-Curci, famous operatic soprano, has sued her manager and accompanist for $250,000, alleging alienation of her affections. She has rotaliated by a replevin suit to recover her wardrobe and other belongings in her New York home. She alleges he has refused to work and she has been compelled to support him and his brother.
